Now, more than at any other moment in human history, change defines the times in which we live. Yet unlike previous moments of social upheaval, change in 2010 is defined by something different – optimism.

Positive change surrounds us. In the way our elected officials act, the way companies conduct business, the way we select the products we buy. And yes, the way we choose to move.

2010 will mark the most fascinating decade in automotive history. Re-structured and re-tooled, manufacturers have plans not just to survive, but flourish. AutoShow 2010 is an integral part of those plans. Here, new content and new features will give you a chance to see, to share, to experience first-hand something you've never had the chance to experience before.

Not simply the best of what is. The best of what's to come. AutoShow 2010.
